NEWS NOTES

• The CENTER FOR RESEARCH LIBRARIES, Chicago, has accepted ownership and managerial control of the Foreign Newspaper Microfilm Project (FNMP) from the Association of Research Libraries, effective January 1. The project, originating at Harvard in 1938, is designed to maintain a pool of current foreign newspaper titles on microfilm and has been housed at the Center since 1956. CRL's absorption of the project provides for all present participants, whether or not members of the Center, to continue to take part in the project; however, no new non-CRL members may participate without first becoming Center members.

• The U.S. OFFICE OF FOREIGN ASSETS CONTROL has lifted its ban on the importation of single copies of published materials from Cuba, Vietnam, North Korea, and Cambodia, according to a January issue of the Federal Register. The Customs Service can now release to individual or institutional addressees any books, newspapers, magazines, films, phonograph records, microfilm, microfiche, posters, and similar materials published in these countries. ■■

RETIREMENTS

WILLIAM H. BOND, librarian of Harvard College's Houghton Library since 1965, will retire on June 1. Bond will continue to teach in Harvard's English Department and will also conduct a seminar on bibliography. Bond was curator of manuscripts at Harvard from 1948 to 1964, assistant to the librarian at Houghton Library 1946-1948, and research fellow at the Folger Shakespeare Library in 1941-1942. In 1981 he was named Sanders Reader in Bibliography at Cambridge University.

DOROTHY COOKE has retired as university librarian at Dalhousie University, Nova Scotia.

DEATHS

BOGDAN DERESIEWICZ, former rare book cataloger at the University of California, Santa Barbara, died in March.

DENNIS ALFRED GIBSON, reference librarian at the University of Southwestern Louisiana, Lafayette, died on November 8 from injuries he sustained in an automobile accident.

JAMES VICTOR JONES, director of the Case Western Reserve University Libraries, Cleveland, since 1968, died on February 27. Jones was known nationwide for his expertise in library organization, management, and planning.

From 1955 to 1966 he was director of libraries at Saint Louis University, where he planned the Pius XII Memorial Library. After that he served as director of libraries at Cleveland State University before coming to Case.

Jones received a bachelor's degree from John Carroll University in 1949 and an MLS from Western Reserve in 1950. He served as chairman of the board of trustees and president of the Ohio College Library Center from 1971 to 1975 and aided in the early planning stages of the OCLC system.

HAROLD LANCOUR, dean emeritus of the library school at Dalhousie University, Nova Scotia, died on October 23 at his home in Vermont.

WILLIAM B. READY, librarian emeritus at McMaster University, died suddenly in Victoria, British Columbia, on September 12.

JESSE HAUK SHERA, dean emeritus of the Baxter School of Information and Library Sciences, Case Western Reserve University, died March 8 in Cleveland at the age of 78. Shera served as dean of the library school from 1952 to 1970, and established the Center for Documentation and Communication Research there in 1955. Though he was partially blind from birth, he was an acknowledged visionary who saw far into the future of his profession.

Shera's career in library work began in 1927 when he became an assistant to the librarian at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio. The next year he became bibliographer and research associate at the Scripps Foundation for Research in Population Problems. In 1940 he was named chief of the census-library project at the Library of Congress to develop a collection in population and demography. The next year he was appointed deputy chief of the Central Information Division of the Office of Strategic Services. He left in 1944 to become associate librarian at the University of Chicago. In 1947-1952 he was associate professor at the University of Chicago Graduate Library School.

After his retirement from Case Western he served for one year as visiting professor at the Graduate Library School of the University of Texas, returning to Case as dean and professor emeritus in 1972.

Among his international honors, Shera served as international delegate to the UNESCO conferences on International Bibliographic Organization and Bibliographic Organization in the Social Sciences in Paris in 1950. The same year he was a delegate for the National Science Foundation to an international conference on classification at Dorking, England. He was also a visiting lecturer at the Brazilian Institute for Bibliography and Documentation in Rio de Janeiro, at Bangalore, India, and at the London School of Librarianship.

His awards have included the Kaula, a gold medal from India, the Distinguished Alumnus Award from the University of Chicago, the Melvil Dewey Award from ALA, the Librarian of the Year Award from Ohio Library Association, and the Ohioana Award from the Ohioana Foundation.

Shera's many publications include An Introduction to Library Science (1976), Foundations of Education for Librarianship (1972), The Compleat Librarian (1970), and Libraries and the Organization of Knowledge (1965). He served as editor of American Documentation from 1953 to 1960 and as editor of Library Quarterly from 1947-52. ■■
