

Internet resources for diversity studies

There have been many requests for discussion of Internet resources for ethnic and diversity studies. There are hundreds of listservs, newsgroups, databases, electronic journals, and documents on various topics involving ethnic and diversity issues. This very broad topic is really too large to cover in just one month, so it will be tackled in small doses over the course of the next two to three months. New resources are being created daily and no attempt will be made to list every one; rather, we will try a selective approach. Please feel free to send the editor information on other electronic sources as they become available.

There are many lists and discussion groups devoted to librarianship. Some of those lists are devoted to issues of race and ethnicity as well. They include, but are not limited to:

- AFAS-L@kentvm.kent.edu—ACRL's Afro-American Studies Section. Access: listserv@kentvm.kent.edu.
- EQUILIBRN@listserv.fullerton.edu—ACRL's Racial and Ethnic Diversity Committee.
- REFORMANET@lmrinet.gse.ucsb.edu—REFORMA. Access: listserv@lmrinet.gse.ucsb.edu.
- BLACKLIB@guvm—Conference of Black Librarians. Access: listserv@guvm.
- EJBLACK@kentvm.kent.edu—Electronic Journal for Black Librarianship. Access: listserv@kentvm.kent.edu.
- FORO-L@listserv.arizona.edu—Transborder Libraries Forum Discussion.
- WIML-L@iubvm—women's issues in music librarianship. Access: listserv@iubvm.

• Chinese American Librarians Association (CALA) Midwest Chapter Electronic Journal. For information contact Bor-sheng Tsai at bitsai@cms.cc.wayne.edu.

Next time we will concentrate on lists, discussion groups, and other sources concerned with racial and ethnic studies.
