Library at the University of North Carolina (UNC). As keeper, Fulghum designed and built the gallery, which has three historic rooms, holds a collection of approximately 22,000 artifacts, and produces four exhibits annually. Before joining UNC, Fulghum was curator of research and development at the North Carolina Museum of History in Raleigh, North Carolina (1979–86) and a museum specialist at the North Carolina Division of Archives and History in Raleigh (1977–79). In 2007, the North Carolina Museums Council awarded Fulghum the Professional Service Award in recognition of outstanding achievement.

Deaths

Connie Costantino, lecturer at the School of Library and Information Science at San Jose State University (SJSU) and part-time library lecturer at Palomar College, has died. She taught information organizations and management, instructional strategies for information professionals, and international and comparative librarianship at SJSU. Her research focused on information literacy, particularly among undergraduate students and educators. Prior to joining SJSU in 2004, Costantino spent more than 30 years as a school, public, and academic librarian. She served as an academic library director at Alliant International University in San Diego (1993 to 2003) and consulted for libraries in Mexico City and Nairobi, Kenya (1993–2003). She was active in ACRL, particularly with the Distance Learning Section, Instruction Section, and as chair of the International Relations Committee. She had been a member of the California Academic and Research Libraries (CARL) since 1996 and a member of the California Library Association since 1994. And she had been a member of the San Diego Regional Library Association since 1990, serving as president, vice president, and program chair. zz
