

INTRODUCTION

Each edition of “Copernican Journal of Finance & Accounting” is our common success and confirms the role and position of the Journal in the establishing of a worldwide scientific co-operation network.

I would like to pay special thanks to Authors, Reviewers and Members of the Scientific Council and the Editorial Team.

CJFA offers an excellent possibility for scientists to publish their articles. This is a perfect forum to present and exchange ideas, research results and conclusions. Up to day, many Authors have presented their inspiring elaborations concerning important themes in the area of international and local Finance & Accounting.

As you know, a growing number of problems and challenges of modern world, has also an economic and financial dimension. This requires strong scientific support from us – scientists. We face the public expectations.

An effective way to be more helpful to the Society and Economy is advanced Science based also on the international scientific co-operation.

Also in this edition we continue our Mission to strengthen scientific collaboration between scientists across the Countries and Universities.
